Message:

As a native Texan, I welcome the 4 million new Texans to our state.

I see that virtually all of them -- 95% -- are people of color. And I welcome that news, as our diversity is a key source of our many strengths as Texans and as Americans.

I am dismayed beyond words to see that the proposed Texas Senate districts are drawn in such a way that it is unrealistic to expect that any more people of color, or others representing the interests of people of color, will be elected to the Texas Senate.

In particular, I notice that the Dallas County area and Harris County areas are gerrymandered to minimize the voting impact of minority communities.

I strongly object to the proposed Texas Senate map that I see online on 9/25/21.
