Message:

Saying that the new redistricting maps were made "race-blind" is laughable when Texas knows it must not violate the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The proposed redistricting maps intentionally continue the racial gerrymandering that happened after the 2010 Census. While the population changes in Texas since 2010 have been due to increases in people of color, Texas legislators have worked to eliminate competitive districts, unfairly consolidate or separate communities of color, and draw districts that entrench white power over state politics in direct opposition to the 2020 Census data.
