Message:

Please stop the gerrymandering and trying to build districts around getting certain kinds of votes out of them. You should try to create districts with the most even population count possible with county and city limits as the major dividers. Even our largest cities are made up of smaller municipalities. Sure you might have a District for Just Dallas Proper and another for Arlington, and three counties in North East Texas might make up a district but that is at least fair. What we don't need is anything like the Current District 35. Which is a ridiculous attempt to marginalize certain votes crossing multiple city and county lines.
