Message:

I'm a resident of Austin, and I'm writing to express my strong opposition to the redistricting plan that seeks to give Donald Trump an unfair advantage by creating five new congressional districts. This proposal carves up communities like mine, separating neighbors who share schools, public transit, and everyday concerns—all for political gain. Redistricting should unify and empower communities, not break them apart. Instead, this map dilutes the voices of urban residents, communities of color, and younger voters who deserve equitable representation. It's blatant gerrymandering and has no place in a state as vibrant and diverse as Texas. I urge you to preserve the cohesion of our communities. Fair maps aren't about party politics—they're about protecting democracy.
