Hello - I am deeply disappointed in the current Texas leadership's desire to unnecessarily redistrict to suppress the votes of large city inhabitants. The needs of large urban areas are incredibly different than the needs of rural areas, and voting reflects that. This is a blatant act of voter suppression and it is morally corrupt. Instead of trying to "cheat" the system, you should be focusing on making lives better for the Texans that you serve. If you are so concerned about losing votes, then it means you are not properly providing to the people you serve. Every single person involved in this heinous misuse of power should be fired.
