Public Comment on Redistricting

Greetings,

I respectfully oppose any mid-decade redistricting efforts that diminish the voting strength of Black and Brown communities in Texas. Altering district boundaries in a way that eliminates or weakens historically representative districts undermines the principles of fair and equitable representation. Such actions risk violating the protections guaranteed under the Voting Rights Act and disrupt the continuity of governance in communities that have long been underrepresented. Redistricting must be conducted transparently, consistently with legal standards, and in a manner that preserves the ability of all communities—especially those that have faced historical discrimination—to elect candidates of their choice.

Thank you for your time,

April Williams
