Regarding: Congressional

Message:

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting plan. The congressional district maps were just redrawn in 2021 and there have not been any changes to the distribution of local populations that would merit additional redistricting. The drawing of congressional districts should be a non-partisan process, but the proposed plan is a clear example of partisan gerrymandering. It is a blatant attempt to manipulate the electoral map for the benefit of the Republican party. If Republicans are interested in improving their performance in upcoming elections, they should come up with policies that resonate with more voters rather than trying to change established rules whenever it suits them. This proposal is unfair to voters, bad for democracy, and embarrassing for Texas.
