To the Members of the Congressional Redistricting Committee:

I am submitting this comment in opposition to the current redistricting map under consideration. This proposal is an insult to the voters of Texas and a fundamental attack on our democracy. It is a cynical effort to manipulate district lines to achieve a partisan advantage, rather than respecting the will of the people. This map intentionally carves up our communities, pits incumbents against each other, and creates absurdly shaped districts that have no basis in real-world community lines. The purpose of redistricting should be to ensure every Texan has a voice, but this plan is designed to silence millions. I implore you to abandon this gerrymandered map and commit to a process that produces districts that are competitive and accurately reflect the diverse and growing population of our state.
