Message:

As Texas continues to grow and diversify, ensuring that political representation reflects the state's demographic reality strengthens the legitimacy of our democratic institutions. With Latinos now comprising approximately 40% of the population, their inclusion in decision-making roles is not just a question of equity, but also of effective governance. Right now, it appears that only 28% of our representatives are Black, Asian or Latino. A legislature or congressional delegation that mirrors the people it serves is better positioned to understand community needs, build public trust, and craft responsive policy—goals that transcend party lines. This will also enable our legislature to focus on current and relevant issues. Please ensure that boundaries are representative of the communities they serve.
