Message:

I'm a Texas voter, and I'm really concerned about how district lines are being drawn—especially when it seems like the goal is to break up blue or minority communities just to gain a political advantage.

Gerrymandering doesn't help anyone in the long run. It just makes people feel like their vote doesn't matter, and that's not how democracy is supposed to work. We need fair maps that represent all Texans, not just the ones who happen to support one party.

We all deserve to have our voices heard, no matter what side of the aisle we're on.
