Message:

Gerrymandering undermines the foundation of democracy by allowing political parties to manipulate district boundaries for their own advantage, rather than reflecting the true will of the people. When districts are drawn unfairly, it dilutes the power of voters, especially those from marginalized communities, and can lead to unequal representation in government. To ensure fair elections and uphold every citizen's right to have their voice heard, voting districts should be drawn by independent, nonpartisan commissions based on accurate population data and community interests.

As a teacher, business owner, and special education advocate we see what you are trying to do. Your intent here is clear and we find it repulsive and embarrassing.
