Message:

I feel strongly about the redistricting issue in Texas. It's concerning to see that the makeup of our congressional delegation doesn't truly reflect our state's incredible diversity. With 60% of Texas residents identifying as people of color, it's disheartening that only 34% of our congressional representatives share that background. This isn't just a political issue; it's about ensuring fairness and equity in how power is distributed within our government, which is essential for all of us.
