Message:

I am a self-described moderate, who has voted for both Republicans and Democrats for the last 45 years in Houston. Our political system is not perfect, but I want my vote to count, for my voice to be heard, if not always agreed with, and I want that for every Texas citizen. I write this, my first letter to my own representatives, to tell you I don't want the President putting his thumb on the scales and skewing who Texans should be choosing as their representatives. Gerrymandering is practiced by both parties, but encouraging and participating in it only disenfranchises citizens and further weakens our political system. It doesn't matter who or what you believe in these troubled times, this redistricting bill is unprecedented, extreme and dangerous. I am praying for you to do the right thing and vote against this terrible idea.
