Message:

I am very disturbed by the current redistricting process. Based on news reports, President Trump has commanded red states including Texas, to gerrymander the current districts to wring out the maximum number of GOP candidates in the mid-terms in an effort to maintain GOP control of Congress. That is not how the founders wanted it to work, that is un-American. Remember one person, one vote? In a representative Democracy, the idea is supposed to be that the candidates are selected based on the votes. Gerrymandering has been a problem for years, of course. Many states have solved it by having districts determined by independent, non-partisan commissions. Whatever the excuse of the day is, we already know the underlying intent of this redistricting effort. Shame on the GOP.
