Message:

I as a 45 plus year resident of Texas, and an active volunteer now with several civic and charitable organizations I implore our state representatives to stop the effort in early redistricting efforts. We have rules designed to redistrict as population changes occur and are just and needed at those times. This trying to manipulate districts to provide an advantage for one political party or another is totally unnecessary and does not warrant the effort of our politicians and is not what the citizens of Texas are interested in. Our legislature should be working on solving serious problems such as, using state excesses in income to fund electric grid and power distribution problems, correcting inadequate warning and emergency preparedness in Kerr county which allowed excessive loss of life, operating within a fiscal budget providing necessary money to our schools especially in light of the federal government offloading their responsibilities onto the state. Operating more efficiently so property taxes are not unbearable for the indigent causing loss of homes while working for unsustainable wages. This would be a better use of our legislative efforts than worrying about managing sexual preferences and medical conditions for our children's health and keeping different gender children out of our restrooms, sport activities and our military. Spending resources to change lines of districting to influence our elections, etc. etc.

Please start representing the interests of your constituencies and stop representing your own political interest. Please stop any efforts to change districting based on political advantages and wait until the rules and population changes to warrant this effort.

Regards,
John Barry
