Message:

When is Austin going to listen to Texas residents instead of listening only to the dictator in Washington? You set up voting districts after the last census and those districts were approved by YOU, the majority Republicans. What is the urgency to change them now? They were good enough for you before the current president was elected. You are not making decisions based upon the people of Texas and disenfranchising a significant number of voters. Even members of your own party know this is wrong. It is true, people don't have long memories, but the next elections aren't far away and you might find out that you have underestimated your Texas voters.
