Message:

I live in Austin, and I'm writing to oppose the redistricting proposal designed to favor Donald Trump with five new congressional seats. This plan slices up communities like mine, dividing neighbors who share schools, transit systems, and local concerns into separate districts for political advantage. Redistricting should strengthen communities, not divide them. This plan does the opposite—it weakens the influence of cities, communities of color, and young voters who have every right to be fairly represented. It's a clear example of gerrymandering and it's unacceptable in a state as dynamic and diverse as Texas. Please respect the integrity of our communities. Fair representation is not a partisan issue—it's a democratic one.
