Message:

I do not support the current attempts to redesign voting districts in the Great State of Texas. This effort, led by President Trump, Governor Greg Abbott, and their allies, is a desperate ploy to disenfranchise low-income voters and voters of color. I have been a Texan my entire life. Today, I am a public school teacher in this state, and I hope to remain here for the rest of my life. Actions like these threaten to silence my voice.

It is a fact that gerrymandering exists in Texas. The only reason it is currently allowed is because the Supreme Court has ruled it permissible so long as it is not racially motivated. But redrawing districts based purely on political alignment to give Republicans an advantage is not only undemocratic, it is cheating.

As someone with the power to make real decisions, I urge you to act with integrity and choose a path that will place you on the right side of history.
