Message:

I find the use of the Redistricting process for the sole benefit of increasing the total number of one parties count to be a perversion of our democratic process. This has been the standard procedure for both parties but shouldn't be used to drive up the number of a parties votes in a federal election. The objective of this Redistricting is not to improve governance but to make it easier for one party to completely eliminate the views and interests of the other. Not democracy but one party rule.
