Message:

I strongly oppose the redrawing of district lines in Texas that serve to silence communities and entrench partisan power. This blatant manipulation of maps to increase Republican voices at the expense of fair representation is not only unethical—it's a direct assault on democracy.

Redistricting should reflect people, not political agendas. Every Texan, regardless of party, deserves an equal voice and fair representation. These maps suppress the will of the people, especially communities of color and urban areas, by diluting our votes and distorting our districts. That's not freedom—that's rigging the system.

We deserve transparent, nonpartisan processes that uplift, not limit, voter power. I stand against this effort to redraw lines that divide, silence, and control. Texas belongs to all of us—not just the ones in power.
