Message:

The idea of redistricting while Houston doesn't have a congressiona representative just highlights how insecure you are in your ability to be elected. Not only that, you are not considering the fact that next go round, the Hispanic community might not be so inclined to vote for the party that is carting off their friends without due process and taking away their healthcare and food supplements.

Go ahead, see how many of you will be out of a job. Better to do better by your constituents and win their vote that way than to destroy the great state of Texas.
